There are a few vacancies left in the beginning class in the Carpenter's Trade School for the winter term. Enough students have signified their desire to take the course to nearly fill the class, but as some have sent word that they intend to enter the class this winter, we have concluded to open registration for this course with Prof. Marsh, by mail for the benefit of those who are not here to register. Students will be admitted to the class in the order of their registration.

A PROCLAMATION OF ECONOMY for the Fall and Winter Season in Men's and Boys' Fine Stylish Made CLOTHING!

We are prepared to cloth you with the Lowest priced, rightly made, absolutely all-wool clothing in America. Rightly made, as it is of famous "Vitals" Brand the only ready-to-wear clothing Tailored on a strictly scientific basis in clean, well ventilated workrooms. Perfect fitting and wear-resisting, because the inside, the "Vitals," the very life of the garment, is overfitted in making, represents the expenditure of time and thought, and is a decided contrast to the tailoring seen in ordinary ready-to-wear clothing. The fabrics that we show are the very newest designs that will be seen this season. Many confined exclusively to us, in the face of the above facts. The most extraordinary feature combining our great offer is, that we can and do sell our clothing at

LESS MONEY

Than elsewhere. How can we afford to sell such high-grade clothing for less money than elsewhere? Our answer is pure and simple. Ours is a modern store, constructed strictly on progressive plans; our clothing is sold on the smallest margin of profit, depending on a large volume of business. The more clothing we sell, the greater our purchasing power the lower our prices. (That's the story in a nut-shell.)

COVINGTON & MITCHELL RICHMOND - KENTUCKY

PRESIDENT FROST AND PROFESSOR ROGERS.

The Mountain Region.

This is one of God's grand divisions of the earth. The States and county lines were made by man, but God made the river courses, and the ocean basins, and the lines that separate the mountains from the level lands.

The map shows how large this mountain region is and how it is located in the very center of the South. It includes part of nine States.

In the second place, the mountain people, as a rule, were loyal to the Union in the Civil War, so that they belong with the North rather than with the South. Their heroic part in saving the Union is one of the most glorious pages in American history.

In the third place, the mountain people have been without good roads, so that they have not been able to keep up their acquaintance with the world outside. While they have been shut away in the hills the people in the other parts of the country have been getting many new inventions and improvements.

In the fourth place, there are many differences among the mountain people themselves. They are separated from each other as well as from the outside world. In some valleys parents who could not read have taught the ten commandments to their children by word of mouth and the household industries, spinning and weaving, have been maintained, and the people are among the most moral and respectable in the country. In other valleys some of the best people have moved away, and whiskey has come in, and wicked things have been done.

From the very beginning of Berea College, its faculty has taken a great interest in the loyal mountaineers. President Fairchild and all the professors took trips among the people, visiting schools and teachers' institutes, and getting acquainted with the people at their homes. Nearly twenty years ago one of the faculty made a lecturing tour of two thousand miles on horseback, speaking in about twenty-five counties. President Frost has followed up this pioneer work, with great energy; and various Berea workers have visited the mountain regions of Kentucky, Tennessee, N. Carolina, and Virginia.

The mountain country is certainly going to be improved. The question is whether foreigners are to be brought in to improve it, or whether the mountain people themselves shall be so educated that they can do it. Berea College proposes to teach the mountain boys themselves to survey land, and lay drains, and take care of the forests, and develop the mines. And it is fitting many mountain girls to teach school, and nurse the sick, and improve their homes.

This issue of THE CITIZEN is sent out to explain these great plans to the people.

James Bond
Courage, Colored Friends.

As in the past, Berea stands firm for equal rights and privileges. Like most American colleges, and all European ones, Berea welcomes all worthy young people to its privileges, and leaves results to be determined by the "law of the fittest." Caste and prejudice are slow to die; but let no fear that Berea will not be "in at the death" when the glorious time comes.

We are proud of the achievements of some of our mountain and Northern students, but none the less proud of the grand records made by our colored students. We give a few examples.

A lad came to Berea, found that he could equal his white classmates, became the first colored graduate, and now has the best position of any colored teacher as Principal of a State Normal School.

A colored girl, facing both poverty and limited health, went as far as the Sophomore year, teaching to pay expenses, and is now Lady Principal in a celebrated college.

A colored man finished a Classical course at Berea, devoted himself to teaching, remaining at one place for the past seventeen years and more than doubling the attendance.

A negro girl came from the far South, completed her course and went back to her native State to give her life to educating the masses.

An ex-soldier worked his way from the beginning, made a reputation for eloquence, graduated, and became one of the foremost colored preachers.

Young colored man took Berea diploma, and became successively P. O. official Professor in high school, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and Principal of a city high school.

A colored man from the mountains studied here 60 miles, worked and studied here for ten years, after graduation studied theology, and is a prominent city pastor.

A full-blood colored man took our Classical course, was instructor here for years, and was successively an editor, Prof. in Normal School, and Supt. of City Schools.

A typical negro came from the common school, for over ten years struggled through the full course, beat white and colored classmates, both at the wood-pile and in the classroom, and as a teacher is blessing his community.

Many other colored students in the writer's mind have bravely gone through the whole course, in the face of obstacles, and are now lights in as many communities, as teachers, preachers, and lawyers. You can do the same.
